Dear (Mr./Ms. Name),

I'm very sorry for my bad behavior in class yesterday. I know that just because the regular teacher is gone doesn't mean that it's a free day. I should have listened better, not distracted the other students.

Thank you for being our sub, and I hope you come back to our classroom soon. I will be on my best behavior next time.

Sincerely,

Formal Apology Letter

Dear Mr. Chandler,

Sir, I would like to send to you my sincere apology for losing our bid against the other company in line with our services offered. I know how much you want this project and I gave my best shot to win the bid unfortunately it was not enough.

I really feel that the failure of our bid is attributable to me and that the only time to feel good again is to ask for an apology. During the bidding process I thought we are going to win it and I took my time not knowing that our rival company had prepared something during the lunch time. I feel that it's my fault why we lost our bid to this big project.

I do hope that you would accept my apology and I promise not to take things for granted again and instead give the entire best to win all our biddings for more projects.

Sincerely yours,

Landa

Dear Mrs. Fischer,

I am writing to apologize for passing notes in class.

I realize that you were discussing important concepts that are going to help us write our upcoming analysis essays and do well on the final, and I should have been paying closer attention. From now on, I'll limit my classroom communication to helpful comments that are related to the subject matter and wait to discuss personal things until after class.

I also wanted to thank you for giving me a warning instead of detention because my coach would have benched me if I had been late to practice. I promise you won't have to make that decision again.

Sincerely,
Bill Tammen
