I really hate the blow to access my apps that I don't have on my main screen and I disabled it on all my previous tablets and phones. Is there a way to disable it on motorcycle power or I'm stuck with having to scroll every time I want to use an app I rarely use? 86 Post 07-09-2017 United States of America 100 Signins 648 views Posts: 86 Registered: A e ä, ~ Ä¼07-09-2017 Location: United States Visits: 648 Message 2 of 8 2020-10-31, 17:10 pm secure! Find the icon for the app you want to insert the home screen in the app drawer, then tap and hold the icon while dragging it to the home screen (and right / left for additional home boxes you have created). Drag it into a free space where you would like to place it, then release. This is a copy of that original icon ... The original still remains in the app drawer. While dragging it, you might find that other icons on the home screen move "to make space" as you do it ... until you continue to press and hold onto the icon that you are moving, those others come back to their original position Hand moving that new icon on them. I hope it helps! You should use the old 3-button navigation if you use a launcher different. 86 Post 07-09-2017 United States of America 100 Signins 648 views Posts: 86 Registered: A e ä, ~ Ä¼07-09-2017 Location: United States Visits: 648 Message 4 of 8 2020-10-31, 17:51 PM It seemed to me that the OP was asking to add a normal app to the home screen that for any reason it has been installed but not there. The Moto Launcher (which seems very similar to a Larschai) has the ability to add widgets to the main screen. 425 post 08-06-2019 United States of America 1591 Signins 7494 visits Page Post: 425 Registered: A e ä, ~ Ä¼08-06-2019 Location: United States Visits: 7494 Message 5 of 8 2020-10-31, 19:00 pm "I'm stuck with having to scroll every time I want to use an app I rarely use?" No, I don't want to share ideas yes, I accept these terms unfortunately, the Android API does not allow us to do it. The apps are only allowed to create shortcut icons on the Home screen, not in the app drawer. So how do you do some other apps? Allow only those app icons that are recorded in the Android APK file downloaded at the time of app development. This means that if an app only supports one or two or three specific app icons, it can list them all during the development of the app, and those will be allowed in the app drawer. For instance, Many Facebook or Twitter Wrapper apps that only work for one or two two Do this. Since our goal with Eremit is to work for all Billion + Lübi websites outside, it is not possible to include a static list within the App itself. So what can be done instead? Try the Ermit Widget: add icon 1 - 1 to the Home screen and select the app that should be opened. This can also be used as an operation for some launchers that do not fully support the shortcut icons API you use Hermit. For those who encounter the same problem as DAPP (activate the rear arrow instead of the hamburger icon), it is most likely because you lack a drawwgggle.syncstate () in your business. To be more specific, you have to overwrite the ONPOSTCREATE () method as this: February 23, 2018, Ä - I'm using native reacted 0.52 and react-icon-vector-icon 4.5.0 on Android device.
