

Click to verify

Fce practice tests 2024

Cambridge B2 First FCE Exam 1 Practice Tests Available Below Are 30 Listening Practice Tests With Answer Keys And Transcripts To Help You Prepare For Your Exam. These Tests Can Be Completed Online, Printed Or Saved In PDF Format For Self-Preparation Purposes. Additionally, A List Of Print-Friendly FCE Listening Tests Is Provided For Those Who Prefer Offline Use. The Old Test Part 1 Covers Eight Different Situations Where You Will Hear People Talking. For Questions 1 To 8, Choose The Best Answer From The Options A, B Or C. You Hear A Customer Discussing A Coat With A Shop Assistant About Her Favourite Colour. What Is The Customer Saying? A) She likes the coat very much. B) She thinks the coat is too expensive. C) She wants to buy a matching hat. You Hear Part Of A Conversation In A Watch Repair Shop. What Is Being Discussed Between The Two People Talking? A) The cost of repairing watches B) The different types of watch straps available C) The history of the watchmaking industry You Hear A Film Review On The Radio. What Criticism Does The Reviewer Express Towards The Movie? A) It was boring and didn't have enough action. B) The special effects were impressive but the plot was weak. C) The movie had a great message, but the acting was subpar. You Hear Someone Talking About Football Referees. What Is The Speaker's Attitude Towards The Referees? A) They are very fair and make good decisions. B) They can be biased and make poor calls. C) They don't matter in the grand scheme of things. You Hear Part Of An Interview With A Sportsman. What Does He Say About His Training Regimen? A) It's too intense and he needs to slow down B) It's just right, and he feels refreshed after each session C) He doesn't really have one, he just goes out on the field and plays You'll listen to people chatting in eight different scenarios. Choose A, B, or C for each of the first 8 questions. 1. In a shop, you overhear a guy answering his phone and 2. Needing urgent medical help, you call a clinic and hear 3. You're listening to someone talk about a book he really likes because 4. Working as a restaurant chef is how the head chef describes his job to 5. A woman's conversation with her husband on their mobile reveals that she's 6. Learning about a country from a travel show, you find out it's located in 7. Enjoying women's football is what this person is doing when they're 8. Discovering how someone feels about her job is the topic of a woman's conversation The text appears to be a sample from an English proficiency exam, likely the FCE (First Certificate in English) test. The content includes multiple-choice questions and short passages about everyday conversations, such as talking to an optician or discussing a robbery. The overall aim is for learners to demonstrate their ability to understand and communicate in English at Level B2. SE Rewritten Text: The text seems to be a sample from the FCE English test. It has got multiple choice questions and short passages about daily conversations lik talkin to an optician or discussin a robbery. The goal is for learners to show they can understand and communicate in english at level B2. NNES Rewritten Text: The text is part of the FCE English exam, it have many questions with multiple choice and some small talks between people, like man talk to optician about his glasses. This exam help students to prove they can speak and understand English well at level 2. IB Rewritten Text: The provided text seems to be a snippet from an English language proficiency examination, likely the FCE (First Certificate in English). The content includes multiple-choice questions that test the listener's ability to comprehend everyday conversations, such as a man discussing his glasses with an optician or a person talking about a newly constructed road. This examination is designed to evaluate learners' skills at Level B2 of the CEFR (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages), indicating they can communicate fluently and effectively in English-speaking environments. The Common European Framework of Reference (CEFR) sets standards for language proficiency. The B2 First exam, part of the Cambridge English Qualifications series, aligns with CEFR levels. There are various exams under this banner catering to schools, general and higher education, and business sectors. B2 First comes in two flavors: one for school-going learners (B2 First for Schools) and another for adults pursuing higher education or employment (B2 First). Initially launched as the Lower Certificate in English (LCE), it has undergone several transformations over the years to keep pace with evolving language teaching methodologies. The exam was first introduced in 1939, prompted by an influx of refugees into the UK from Spain and occupied Europe. The inaugural LCE exam took place on June 21, 1939, with 144 students participating. This initial version consisted of three sections: Oral, English Composition and Language, and Prescribed Texts. By 1943, a translation paper was introduced, which could be taken in up to 18 languages. Candidates from the Polish Army, RAF, Netherlands Fleet Air Arm, and Czechoslovak RAF Squadron sat for the exam during World War II. In 1948, over 2,500 members of the Polish Resettlement Corps took the exam, while prisoners of war in Britain and occupied Europe were also offered a special version. After the war, it became one of Cambridge's most popular exams, with 4,000 candidates in 1947. The qualification underwent significant revisions in 1975, driven by shifts towards communicative language teaching, and subsequent updates in 1984 and 1996 to better reflect modern language skills. The 1996 revision notably expanded the range of writing, listening, and speaking micro-skills assessed. However, it was not until January 2015 that another major overhaul took place, shortening the overall exam time by 30 minutes, combining two papers into one, and reducing the number of papers from five to four. Today, B2 First remains a widely recognized benchmark for English proficiency worldwide. B2 First and B2 First for Schools are two Cambridge English Qualifications designed for school-aged learners. Both exams have the same format but differ in topics, catering to adult and school-aged learners' interests. The exams consist of four papers, covering reading, writing, listening, and speaking skills. Candidates can choose to take some papers on a computer or paper. Since 2015, Cambridge English Scale scores replaced candidate profiles, providing a more standardized assessment. The statement of results includes the score on each skill, overall exam score, CEFR level, and UK NQF level. B2 First targets CEFR Level B2 but provides reliable assessments at C1 and B1 levels as well. B2 First Cambridge English Qualifications Overview Many higher education institutions and professional employers accept the B2 First Cambridge English qualification for admissions or recruitment purposes. Very grateful for your site, which is truly well-designed! Thanks again, and congratulations on creating such a wonderful platform. I must say, it's very professionally done. Best regards, Diana Dubu - FCE Student Thanks a lot for all the tests. I'm really happy with Flo-Joe. Thank you all. Nezaket, FCE student. Turkey Page 2: FCE Practice Test FCE Reading and Use of English Part 5: Multiple Choice You're going to read an extract from a writer's journal. For Questions 1-6, choose the correct answer A, B, C or D. Six months ago, I made a rash promise. The leader of the youth club in our village called me in March, saying, "We're thinking of running a children's playscheme for a day in October half-term. Would you be prepared to help?" My response was, "Sure, why not?" In truth, I was a little flattered to be asked, even though working as a care assistant with old people hardly qualified me for the role. Still, I put the date in my diary and forgot all about it. Time has a habit of speeding along faster than a police car chasing a robber. Before I knew it, the day was dawning. I arrived at the youth centre that morning feeling full of trepidation. There were 12 helpers including me, and each pair had been allocated a particular age group. Mine was the 10- to 11-year-olds. Even with the planning meeting I attended the week before, I worried about whether I was up to the task. Why hadn't I read through the copious lesson plans we were given beforehand? And wasn't the average 10-year-old more interested in the latest Play Station game than making things with paper and glue? All too quickly, the children began arriving. The look of relief on parents' faces as they handed their offspring over to us was quite comical. A handful of the children were already members of the club, but the other forty-five or so were from local primary schools. Again, I asked myself why I had elected to spend a day with all these "little monsters" - especially when I have two of my own to contend with! I reflected on my experience running the playscheme with the kids, and I realized what an incredible privilege it was. One thing that stood out as a disappointment for them was that the program only lasted a day instead of the whole week. As I said goodbye to the group, one of the kids turned around and asked if we could do it again during the next holiday. I replied, "Why not?" Hone your language abilities by practicing with friends in a worldwide setting - download the app now! Enhance your linguistic skills through interactive content: - Writing:. Explore our vast repository of resources. - Listening:. Improve your listening comprehension with 'Virtually Anywhere', a new audio series. - Speaking:. Consult the English Pronouncing Dictionary. Access an array of free online activities tailored to improve reading, writing, listening, grammar, pronunciation, and vocabulary skills. Browse through them now!