When testing these pants, we found they had ample room in the seat and quads as well as the perfect amount of stretch. They also have a solid blend of breathability and durability—all while offering a stylish silhouette that looks good with everything from a vibrant golf polo to a buttery henley.To elaborate more on how much we like the Open to Close Pant, we've played multiple rounds of golf in several different climates—from Florida all the way to Scotland. We've worn them for entire afternoons after playing and for entire days when going to the office. In other words, you can wear from sun up to sun down, no matter what's on the agenda. The pant is a match made in heaven for the modern man's wardrobe, and it holds up exceptionally well after each washing cycle.In terms of what color to pick, we recommend the heather black pair—it's sharp and will match the most with what you've got in your wardrobe.Material89% Polyester, 11% SpandexFitClassicSizes30—42Colors available11ProsIncorporates ventilated gusset for breathabilityUPF 40+ rating Cuffs have reflective detailing for nighttime visibilityTapered look offers flattering fitConsPricey, but will fabric won't wear and tear easilyHave you ever wondered, "What if Lululemon transformed its famous ABC Pant into a golf pant?" Well, that's essentially what the athleisure brand did with the Slim-Fit Golf Trouser, an ultra-comfortable piece that has equal amount of space and stretch for taking big time hacks. While we recommend this trouser to pretty much any golfer, the downside is that it's one of the most expensive bottoms on this list. But hey, there are some major plus points for the fabric's features. For starters, the design integrated a ventilated gusset, which allows for better circulation in the crotch area, while reducing any chance of moisture buildup. It's also made with UPF 40+ rating, so those who prefer protective clothing for their skin will find these worth a look.Our style editors are all about the tapered look. That's because the fabric lightly follows the natural contours of your glutes and thighs, providing a flattering appearance. It strikes a balance between being form-fitting and offering enough ease for comfort and mobility. Other notable features include reflective cuff details, elastic panels on the waistband and accessible drop pockets to carry your golf balls. Did we mention the gold trousers are water-resistant, too?Material95% Nylon, 5% ElastaneFitSlimSize28—40Colors available3Advertisement - Continue Reading BelowBest Lightweight Golf PantProsFabric is lightweight and breathableQuick dry featuresGreat for playing in hot temperaturesStylish silhouetteConsFabric isn't as soft as other pants on this listGreatness Wins has a core collection of athletic wear that performs with the best of them. What's also great is the brand has several golf pieces that are constructed to high standards too. At the center of the golf collection is the Clubhouse Pant, a garment that's big on moisture-wicking and stretch.When playing in these we found the pant is incredibly breathable and lightweight. The pant fabric is thin, yet durable, allowing for smooth play even in temperatures up to 85-degrees Fahrenheit and above. The only downside to this pant is the fabric isn't as soft as some of the others on this list, which we see as a tradeoff the brand made when opting to prioritize cooling.Material92% Recycled Polyester, 8% SpandexFitClassicSizes30—40Colors available3Best Jogger-Style Golf PantsProsFeels so soft on the legs, almost like second skinCan double as a travel pantSnug ankle fit prevents excess fabric from flapping aroundZippered pockets fit scorecard or teesConsMay not be country-club approved, but works onVuori's golf apparel nails that sweet spot between comfort and performance. Take the Fleet Jogger. Our editors raved about how the fabric feels super soft against your body, almost like a second skin, but without any tightness or restriction. The lightweight knit is also made with four-way stretch, which means you can easily twist and turn to unleash your swing. And let's be real, it's nice when a pair of golf pants can double as travel pants.The zippered pockets are a game-changer compared to the drop-in ones on other golf pants. They're more secure for stashing a glove or scorecard. We're all about the snug fit around the ankles, too. It prevents excess fabric from flapping around and causing distractions while you're getting ready to sink that six-footer.Material79% Recycled Polyamide, 21% ElastaneFitAthleticSizeS—XXLColors available4Advertisement - Continue Reading BelowProsTons of colors and fits availableColor stays rich after multiple washesAthletic cut fits great for guys with muscular legsCan wear as an office pantConsPant traps heat more due to designMade with moisture-wicking and treated with UV resistance, the Performance Link Pant is an easy go-to golf pant you can grab in a wide array of colors. When testing, we found the colors of the pant to be rich and vibrant through multiple washes, which is sometimes not the case when buying performance golf pants. We also tried the athletic fit and were thoroughly impressed with the amount of space provided in the quad and the seat. You can also get these pants in other types of fits, but we think these shine the brightest in the athletic fit category.Material100% Recycled PolyesterSize28—46Colors available10ProsSuper flexible Boasts a formal style that's admissible at plush country clubsAvailable in unique light and neutral tonesWicks away sweatConsOn the expensive side, but the price matches it premium feelOne thing's for certain: Peter Millar makes top-tier golf attire, and this five-pocket pant is a prime example. It has the right amount of performance features including moisture-wicking technology and two-way stretch. That means sweat won't get in the way of your game and you'll have the flexibility to move in any direction. And since it boasts this classic design, you can wear this style right off the course and out to brunch or the movies.We tested the infinity color option, but the pant is available in a bunch of unique light and neutral tones that range from cream to sand. No matter which you decide on, they have a formal style that makes them admissible for golfing at most private country clubs. Although one might argue that the price is a little steep, the quality of the pant is super deluxe. Even after two years of regularly golfing in this pant, it still looks and feels as good as new.Material100% polyesterFitClassicSizes30—44Colors available10Advertisement - Continue Reading BelowProsComfortable tapered cutLow wrinkling Plenty of colors to choose fromMoisture-wickingConsNot as long of a lifespan as other pants on this listWe've said it before and we'll say it again: Amazon Essentials' golf apparel is pretty awesome. It's not the most advanced golf apparel in the game, but when you consider the pieces are made with quality performance blends and offered at a low price point, it's easy to recommend them as one of the best grab-and-go golf brands around.What you can also do is this: buy this pair of flattering stretch-fit pants above and then match them with a high performance golf polo (like a Lululemon or an RLX polo). It's a smart way of adding a solid pant and an elite polo for under $150 total. Despite its affordable price, the pants maintain excellent craftsmanship. The material is moisture-wicking and wrinkle-resistant, ensuring you stay cool, while still looking put-together. Plus, there's an additional fifth pocket, perfect to stash markers and tees. We've worn these pants year round because they feel super comfortable and look classic, whether you're wearing for style or sport.Read more: Best Workout Clothes on AmazonMaterial98% Polyester, 2% ElastaneFitTaperedSizes28—42Colors available9Most Underrated Golf PantsProsComes with UPF 50+ sun protectionLightweight, airy feelSuitable for boating and fishing outingsConsMay not be country club-approved, but works for local municipal courseFreeFly pays attention to the little details that make a big difference. From the ventilated structure and sun protection to the zippered pocket, this golf pant does not skimp on functionality. We love the straight-leg look as the fabric doesn't cling to your leg, so you have the freedom of movement for every swing and step. They also lay neatly over your golf shoes, which means no awkward bunching or riding up.From a style perspective, some may consider this fit a little baggy since there's extra material around the shin and lower leg, but it doesn't cancel out comfort. The pant is still breathable and featherweight with enough stretch to bend down and tee up a ball or line up a putt. Plus, this pair dries incredibly fast, in the event you get caught in abrupt showers.They may not be what you'd wear at a posh country club, but for hitting balls at the local course or range, these pants are way underrated. Primarily designed for boating and fishing, but they're spot-on for golfing comfort.Material86% Polyester, 14% SpandexFitStraightSizeS—3XLColors available6Advertisement - Continue Reading BelowBest Athletic Fit Golf PantsProsMoisture-wicking and water-resistantBend and flex with each swingTons of colors availableGreat fit for guys who have big quadsConsPopular colors tend to sell out fastGolfing can get really intense, especially when you're out there under the blazing sun. But fear not, because Under Armour's golf pants feel light as a feather rather than chafe. They pull moisture away from your skin, limiting sweat marks, even when the pressure's on. The pants can also come in handy when the sky opens. Thanks to their water-resistance, the fabric is engineered to repel rain instead of soaking it up like a sponge. Our editors like the athletic cut because it fits like a glove without being too tight. We also appreciate that the pants are made with a stretch waistband, which means no pinching at the waist as you're swinging for the green. Best of all, this pair won't cost you an arm and a leg.Fabric100% PolyesterFitAthleticSizes28—52Colors available14Best Khaki Colored Golf PantProsSoft and comfortable feel like a chino pantTechnical twill fabric has high level of stretchDurable pockets that keep your items locked in placeConsFabric is thicker so it runs hotterWilson's Staff Performance Pant is made to go a full 18 rounds and then some. The pant is unique in the way it's made with what Wilson calls a "technical twill", a performance fabric we found feels like a quality pair of chinos—especially when it comes to thickness and durability. We also loved how the Performance Pant had deep and secure pockets, making it easy to carry our phone out onto the green for taking swing capture videos.These pants do trap more heat when compared to some of the more breathable pairs on this list, so if you're looking for a pair of golf pants that are thin and lofty it's worth referring to something like the Open to Close Pant instead.Read more: Wilson Dynapower Set ReviewMaterial100% PolyesterFitAthleticSIZES28—38Colors available2Advertisement - Continue Reading BelowThe Men's Health commerce team is constantly testing the latest golf equipment, accessories, and apparel to hit the market.
