Question 1: You are Rajendra Kumar, a social worker. You read an article in The Hindu on 'Health Care for Indian Workers'. Write a speech in 125-150 words on the importance of health care to be delivered at a public function to create awareness among the workers. Answer: Health Care for Indian Workers Respected Chairperson and my dear friends! It is really a matter of grave concern for all of us that we hardly take care of the health of workers. We always see them working in inhuman conditions, neglecting their health. But they work even in such conditions only to fulfil their basic needs. They just do it at the cost of their health. The authorities concerned must ensure clean and healthy working conditions for these people. Govt. must take initiatives to provide health care services to these workers and their families. They must be made aware of the importance of cleanliness and hygiene. These workers really play a big role in our society. The Indian workers must be provided basic health facilities. It must be our duty to make their lives as healthy as ours. Thank you Question 2: Media has a strong hold on society. Write a speech in 125-150 words on how media influences public opinion to be delivered in the school assembly. Answer: Media's influence on Public Opinion Respected Chairperson and my dear friends! Today I would like to present my views before the august body regarding the role of media. Media is the most powerful weapon of democracy. It influences our life in many ways. It makes us aware with the latest developments of the country as well as the world. It works at 24 x 7 basis. It also helps us in making public opinion. The influence of media is increasing day-by-day in the society. It is also the responsibility of media to provide authentic information to the public. It must be the aim of the media to make people aware with the pros and cons of any issue. Then only people can form their opinion and draw an inference on that issue. It is the responsibility of media to ensure that they direct their efforts towards building a constructive and balanced society. Thank you Question 3: You are chosen for representing your school at the regional level inter-school debate contest. Prepare a debate for the same on the topic given below: 'Newspapers ought to contain more news and fewer advertisements'. Answer: Newspapers Ought to Contain More News and Fewer Advertisements (by Prachi) Respected Chairperson, August faculty and dear friends, It is painful to see that journalists have lost all ethics and professionalism today. Like all other professionals, the pressmen are also attracted by the lure of the lucre. They adopt diverse techniques to increase the revenue of their paper. They try to sensationalise the news to win more readers. However, even the newspaper having the largest circulation is not self-dependent. It must have plenty of commercial advertisements to meet its running costs. In fact, it is these ads which provide the owners the requisite funds. Thus, advertisements cannot be ruled out. They are a necessary evil and must stay. The owners and editors of the newspapers must also realise their responsibility to the nation. The press is the strongest pillar of democracy. It creates sensible public opinion in favour of good policies and criticises the wrong policies. The newspapers must maintain a balance between news and advertisements. A common man buys a newspaper for news. It would be better that the editors publish a classified advertisement supplement twice or thrice a week and save the general reader from the proliferation of advertisements while scanning the pages for news and news. Question 4: 'Our Good Earth' an environmental awareness magazine has launched a marathon 'Clean Your City' campaign. As an active participant write a speech to be read out in the morning assembly urging students to participate in the campaign. Answer: 'Clean Your City' Campaign' (by Smriti) Respected teachers and dear friends 'Cleanliness is next to godliness' is an old adage. It is perhaps most relevant nowadays when environmental pollution is increasing day by day. Prevention is better than cure. Dirt and disease thrive together. Insanitary conditions of the streets not only give the city a filthy and ugly look, they also breed many harmful disease causing bacteria. Our first effort, therefore, is to keep our surroundings clean. People should separate their household solid waste in two parts—biodegradable and non-biodegradable, instead of heaping them together. Proper steps should be taken for garbage disposal. Incinerators should be installed at proper places. The use of biogas and other eco-friendly materials can help to keep the kitchen clean. The 'clean your city' campaign launched by the magazine 'Our Good Earth' aims at making us conscious of cleanliness of our surroundings. We can keep our environment clean by minimising the harmful gases spewn by the automobiles by sharing the vehicles. The replacement of diesel driven buses by CNG buses will help to reduce the suspended particulate matter in the air. The citizens must become cleanliness conscious. Question 5: You are a student volunteer of National Literacy Mission (NLM) wing of your school involved in the Adult Literacy Campaign 'Each One, Teach One'. Write out the introductory talk you plan to give at each place you visit. (Word limit: 200 words) Answer: Each One Teach One Dear friends We have all collected here to work together to realise the dream of the National Literacy Mission. We would like to see an India where each person is literate. Our learners are not students or children like us but adults. They are people with a rich experience of life and have an active role in society. We would like to build upon that experience, wisdom and maturity. The learning strategies that we will adopt in our programme will be exploratory and interactive. We seek your commitment and involvement. Some of our objectives are to bring about at least a basic learning of reading, writing and counting. We wish to promote better health awareness and care to be taken. We would like to create an awareness about the democratic processes, rights, duties and obligations. We especially would like to focus on the status of women, the girl child and how they can fight against exploitation and injustice and thus build their own self confidence and respect. We wish to focus on social issues and create awareness about environmental problems, population control and self-employment. As a volunteer of National Literacy Mission, I pledge myself towards achieving our goals. Question 6: You have been asked to make a speech on noise pollution in big cities. Write an article on 'Noise Pollution' in not more than 200 words. Answer: Noise Pollution It appears that the giant strides of progress of man include a rising crescendo of noise. The natural sounds of twittering and chirping of birds is lost in the din of loud city sounds. Everywhere you turn, you hear a volume of sound. At home, one can hear the blaring of stereos and television. Even if you prefer a quiet evening of solitude, your peace will be shattered by the ear-splitting music from next door. But on the streets, it is worse. At a busy cross-road all one can hear is the honking of horns, screeching of brakes and squealing tyres. If you take a late morning walk, you are sure to come across construction going on and the grating sound of machinery. There could be processions, slogan shouting, yatra, etc. To get some peace, enter a restaurant and you find the latest numbers blaring out. Take a taxi and the driver will in all probability switch on his favourite loud music. Stations of all kinds—bus and railways are the hub of noise of all kinds, right from the potter to the conductor, each one tries to compete with the other in shouting over the din. You expect night to be a time of peace but even then you can hear all night 'jagratas' or marriages with a lot of loud music or the party next door which goes on and on. Noise is something that doesn't end and silence, they say is golden. It surely is becoming as rare as gold. Question 7: Meenu has to speak in a debate supporting the motion that, 'Teaching Profession is Better than Medical Profession'. Write out her speech in not more than 200 words. Answer: Teaching Profession is Better than the Medical Profession (by Meenu - in favour of the motion) Respected teachers and dear friends I stand before you to support the motion that, teaching profession is better than medical profession. You can be the candle that spreads its light and you can fight up millions of tiny lamps as a teacher.' Teaching has always been and continues to be a noble profession. Commercialisation has touched it but not seeped right through it. The medical profession has been transformed today. Doctors take the oath but a large number seem to transform their conscience into a commercial money spinning machine. Doctors' shops have mushroomed at every nook and corner in our cities. Teaching involves interactive sharing process which can transform the lives and outlook of an individual. The destiny and character of many a leading personality has been shaped in the classrooms. The future of the nation and the future of entire mankind is based on the values imbibed in the early impressionable years of life. If illiteracy is removed from our country a major problem for us will get solved. Even today an ordinary teacher has basic values and lives a simple life. Doctors on the other hand run after the luxuries of life. All in all it can easily be said that teaching profession is better than the medical profession.
