It is basically a modded Action Replay/GameShark/Memory card plus cartridge that will start the backup games and import without using the swap trick and damaging the disks or the system. Think of the old PlayStationA plug and play Action Replay soft mod with the spring to the cover but this © permanent, like the old first Xbox. Now after you've done this to the flash cart, it will no longer be an Action Replay, GameShark, or Memory card plus, but it will be worth the sacrificum in my opinion. Things you'll need: an Action Replay or Gameshark 3em1/4em1 or memory card plus, you can get the Action Replay 4M Auto Plus from PlayAsia.com partners for $25.99 here and don't forget to use our coupon Informant to save some dallars. ATLUS Reader Image File Recorded on CD-R Sega Saturn Console (Any Region) A real Saturn game of your country code and a burnt backup game for a CD-R to test (*Use your own games For best results) Disclaimer: You will lose the function Save the backup and deceive caps from your Action Replay, Memcard Plus or GameShark. This basically turns those strollers into a portable chip. You will need to run the exchange trick once to start the Atlus installer disc and also disassemble the Saturn to record the cover switch so that you can run the exchange trick. Files: Atlus installer: a, Steps: 1. Remember the SEGA SATURN console 2. Remove the three lid. Tape the cover switch located on the back part, so that the Saturn thinks it is necessary to shut down while the lid is off. Note: If you have the other model, the switch is on the top cover and you can see it when you open and close the cover near the back inside the cover. It is a very small switch, but you can see it and also burn it. Now you will use the switch trick to start atls install disk. Now I know this is a younger image of the installer, but I found it best to use the oldest who is in the post. How to change the trick: start Saturn with the Atlas Pseudo Saturn installer on the drive (no cards in Saturn). When you hear the first sound of the moving laser moving over time a € -- - COMMERINGa €™ exchange for a real game. When you hear this sound again, you will change the exchange of the Atlas Pseudo Saturn. You must now load the Atlas Pseudo Saturn installer. It can take some outlets as I got in the third attempt, the hardest trick was to hear that bzst sound. POP THE ACTION REPLAY / CART IN THE SATURN AND PRESS START PRESS START AGAN SCROLL ALL THE WAY DOWN TO FIRMING press A Scroll all the way down to another screen to PS031.bin and press Start Scroll down to Flash Action Replay and press A Press A again. Quando a tela mudar para a tela de RepetiA$Afo de A A$Afo, pressione e segure A+B+C e entAfo pressione Iniciar Iniciar Cheers. © that clearly says "done." (It takes about a minute or two) Turn off Saturn, remove the tape on the switch on the lid and screw Saturn back together. Boot Saturn with Backup on the drive and Cart in the opening. Choose Start Game and it's done. Now, here we are living a great video showing you how to do it too © m if you need a little visual help like many of us today, just have love that Youtube. Lol tiae 159;< I can't use the Sega Saturn Action Replay Plus Cartridge Pseudo Saturn with the rhea ode!! Hi, everyone. I changed my Japanese with my head and everything's working fine. But when I turn on the Action Replay cartridge and turn on the system I automatically start to the Pseudo Saturn Kai menu and I can't access the rmenu unless I shut down the system and turn off the cartridge itself.. I need the cartridge so I can play some of the games that required the 1+ 4mb card! Is there any solution to my problem? For the time being, thank you to all previous speakers:)1 Upvotes Upvotes
